The Republicans of this State are split wide open. Its not of much consequence, but as a newspaper we feel called upon to note all public events.

The magnificent steamer Robert E. Lee was burned to the water's edge, last Saturday at 3 A. M., thirty miles below Vicksburg. About thirty persons perished in the flames and by drowning. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Because Richard Roe fills himself to the nozzle and makes a hog of himself is no good reason why John Doe should be denied the inherent right of enjoying the good things of life decently and in moderation. If it were, we fear everybody would have eventually to be starved to death by law: more persons dig their graves with their teeth than wash them out with drink.

Delegates to the Democratic Congressional Convention for the Ninth District were chosen last Saturday. They are favorable to the nomination of Mr. Broadhead, who, for several weeks past, has been made the subject of bitter abuse by the Post-Dispatch. The other elements of Mr. B.'s success are too well known to every intelligent citizen to need recounting. As a Congressman, he will be an honor to the State.

Secretary Folger accepts the nomination for Governor of New York by the Stalwart Republicans, notwithstanding it has been proved beyond doubt that that nomination was secured through forgery and fraud. Three alleged proxies are shown to have been forged, and in every instance if the real committeemen had been present their votes would have been given to the Cornell organization, and the result would have been very different. Hepburn, the only Cornell man, or Half-Breed, on the ticket, declines. He was nominated for Congressman-at-Large. In his letter of declination, he says:

It is apparent that owing to the unfortunate circumstances that have come to light since the adjournment of the Convention a very large portion of the Republicans of the State are not disposed to accept its conclusions as the authoritative utterances of the party. Nothing should be left undone to secure unity and harmony of the party, and I don't think it right to enter upon the canvass without earnest effort in that direction. It seems to me that for the purpose of obtaining such result all questions should be submitted anew to representatives of the party assembled for such purpose and in furtherance of that object, while fully appreciating the very high compliment paid me by the Convention, and returning my sincere thanks for the same, I deem it my duty to acquaint you with my declination of said nomination.

"Scandalous Marriages."

The Western Watchman a would-be organ of the Catholic Church in St. Louis, thus discourses concerning the recent marriage at the Arsenal, of Dr. Louis A. Tesson to Miss Maggie Duncan. The ceremony was said to be performed by Rev. Dr. Nicolls:

SCANDALOUS MARRIAGES.
A marriage in high life took place last week, the particulars of which, as published in the daily papers, made every Catholic in the city blush. A young Catholic, a son of one of the proudest French Catholic families of the city, wedded a Protestant lady before a Presbyterian minister.

Why did the young man commit a mortal sin on his wedding day?

Why did the young man tramp on his religion, on his baptismal record and on his conscience upon his wedding day?

Why did the young man spit upon the cross and sell his manhood on his wedding day?

Why did the young man insult the living and outrage the memory of his dead kinsmen on his wedding day?

Why did he turn his back upon the altar and renounce his first communion on his wedding day?

Why did the young man sell his soul and the souls of his unborn children to the devil on his wedding day?

It was for love. The lady demanded the sacrifice and it was not in his power to refuse. She made it as a condition of the bestowal of her hand that he should unman himself and his soul, deny himself and his soul, perjure himself, falsify his baptismal record and insult his nearest and dearest friends before she would be his bride. He loved her and he submitted.

The devil supplied the argument in this process of apostasy. He said the girl had as much right to her religion as he had to his. That was not true, but even granting it, it was not against her religion to be married by a priest, while it was a violation of his religion and conscience to be married by a minister. Every Protestant in the world recognizes as valid and lawful any marriage that the State approves, and every State recognizes the marriage solemnized by a priest.

She said she had a conscience as well as he. Granted, but her conscience would not be wounded by being married before a priest; while his would be violated by a marriage before a minister. Were she a member of the strictest Protestant sect in Christendom she might approach the Lord's Supper in her church without censure the day after her marriage; while the moment he did the sacrilegious deed he was barred from the sacraments and excommunicated from the church's pale. He did it for love. Accused to be the man who so loves a woman that he would sell his soul for her; deny his God for her; sacrifice home and heaven for her. Such a wedding is a covenant with hell, and a league with the devil.

Perhaps the greatest thing poor humanity has to be thankful for is the assurance that no creed-bound sectarian guards the portals of heaven. If such were the case, the community of the New Jerusalem would be exceeding small. The diatribe of the Watchman, however, was without warrant, for the marriage in question was solemnized by a Catholic priest, and merely "blessed," afterward, by Rev. Dr. Nicolls.
